

Volusia County Animal Services Volusia Animal Preparedness (VAP)

Volusia Animal Preparedness (VAP) is a cooperative effort among animal organizations in Volusia County. Members include dog and cat clubs, equine and livestock organizations, humane societies, veterinarians, animal control agencies, the American Red Cross, and the Volusia County Emergency Management Division. The goal of VAP is to provide emergency and supportive care for people with animals in times of disaster.

Prepare Before Disaster Hits

Disasters are diverse and devastating to everyone involved – including animals. Hurricanes, floods, tornadoes, train derailments and explosions can leave pets helpless and homeless. Planning can save the lives of beloved companion animals and livestock.

Here are tips to help you prepare for a disaster:

- Ask dependable friends or relatives who live away from an at-risk area if you and your animal can stay with them during an emergency.*
- Develop an evacuation plan that includes your animals. Learn which area shelters and motels take companion animals and/or have a designated inland evacuation place.*
- Identify local boarding kennels that may be able to shelter your pet. Find out who stays on the premises with the animals during emergencies and what provisions have been made if the kennel occupants need to evacuate.*
- Find out which veterinary clinics have boarding facilities. Check their evacuation procedures.*
- Stay tuned to your local news media for the safest evacuation routes.*
- Be prepared to evacuate when advised by local government authorities. Have all supplies, kits, transportation and evacuation plans prepared. Don't wait until an evacuation order is given to begin your planning. This can delay your safe evacuation and possibly expose you to traffic tie ups, high winds and other unsafe conditions.*
- Stock an animal emergency supply kit.*
- All belongings should be marked with identification.*
- Take first aid and CPR courses and keep the manuals handy. (The same basic principles apply to animals.)*
- If you have exotic pets, contact the Florida Fish and Game Commission or a zoological garden in a safe area for assistance with shelter. Supply appropriate housing, food and water.*

If You Decide To Stay Home:

- Remain calm and speak to your animal(s) regularly in calm, reassuring voice.
- Bring companion animals indoors well before the disaster.
- Do not leave domestic pets outside or tied up.
- Prepare an area for companion animals inside the house away from windows. Pets will be most comfortable if they are secure in pet carriers.
- Let haltered livestock roam in large, woven wire (not barbed wire) fenced pastures away from possible flying debris. (For instance, tin roofs can be lethal.) There should be no overhead power lines. Provide uncontaminated water.
- Keep identification available such as photos, tattoos or bands.
- In case of flooding, provide access to high places such as countertops.
- Difficult, dangerous animals should be placed in special carriers to reduce the possibility of escape.

Do not leave companion animals home alone!

People and Pet Shelter

As a last resort, in the event of a disaster, owners and their animals will be provided shelter at the Volusia County Fairgrounds on S.R. 44, one-quarter mile east of I-4, or other Volusia County designated pet friendly shelters. All companion animals must have a current license, vaccinations, identification and rabies tags. They must be confined in pet carriers or crates and must be under control at the facility at all times. Some shelters in Volusia County have been designated "pet friendly." Pet friendly means the owners and their animals can stay at the same shelter.

Pet emergency supply list

- Pet first aid kit, including medications.
- Shot records, ownership papers, and a current photo of each pet.
- Water bowls and bottled water in plastic bottles for three days per animal.
- Food bowls and food for three days per animal. Dry foods are recommended.
- Manual can opener.
- Disinfectant and cleanser to handle animal waste properly.
- Pet carrier or crate for each animal. Take time to familiarize your pet with the carrier, which must be large enough for the animal to stand and turn around when inside.
- Towels and blankets, toys, brushes and combs.
- Leashes and collars with current license, identification and rabies tags attached securely, and muzzles if necessary.
- Paper towels and thick baby wipes.
- Old newspapers.
- Cat litter and disposable litter pans.
- Plastic bags.
- Flashlight and radio with extra batteries and bulbs.
- For large animals, pack livestock halters, leads, tape, rope, identification bands, fly spray and medical supplies including bandages. Include three days of food and water stored in waterproof containers.
- Emergency cash.

Animal identification

One of the most important steps you can take to prepare for a disaster is to have your pet micro-chipped. Microchips are permanent source of identification for your pet. They are not a GPS and do not have the ability to locate your pet.

Microchipping your pet will help return them to you after a disaster. A pet owner can alert the micro-chip company that a pet is missing.

Also, your county pet license should be attached securely to your pets collar.

- There is no need to pre-register for a pet friendly shelter.
- Microchip each pet and bring your current rabies certificate , if available.
- Microchips are a way for your pet to be returned to you, however, they are meaningless if the registration contact information is not kept current and complete.
- Livestock should have some type of identification, such as a leg band. Leg bands are available from equine organizations or the Agricultural Center in DeLand.
- Metal identification tags also will help.
- A picture of each animal with a matching identification number should be available. Include a close-up of any special identifying mark(s).

If you and your pet plan to evacuate:

- Go to your predetermined shelter (family, friends, hotel/motel) or the shelter at the Volusia County Fairgrounds.
- Take needed items for you and your pet to be self-sufficient for up to seven days.

There are websites that have kennels and hotels/motels that will allow pets. (petswelcome.com, Bringfido.com and booking.com are a few)

After the emergency

- Walk with your animal(s) on a leash until they become reoriented to their home. Do not allow animals to roam freely.
- Remember that downed power lines and other debris pose danger to you and your animals.
- Beware of standing water and other animals.
- Do not allow animals to consume food or water that may have become contaminated.
